

Kelkin announces price cuts across their gluten free range...

Leading health food specialists Kelkin Ltd. have recently announced details of significant price cuts across their range of gluten free products. Over the last few months the company has been working closely with suppliers to drive down production costs with the intention of passing these savings onto their loyal consumers. Over the next coming weeks, price reductions of up to 17% should be seen in stores across a range of Kelkin gluten free products including breads, cakes, and crackers. This is positive news for Coeliac consumers!

Commenting, Charlie Sothern, Commercial Director, Kelkin Ltd. said "our commitment is to our consumers - we are delighted to pass on price reductions and we are committed to investing in and developing new and innovative products".

Kelkin have been providing delicious, gluten free food options in Ireland for over 30 years. Well known for its wide range of appetising gluten free products including rice cakes, breads, biscuits, cakes and cereals, their expertise and commitment have allowed them to continually develop and improve their current range of gluten free foods.

Latest additions to the Kelkin gluten free range include; Deep Pan Pizza Bases and Original & Cheese Flavoured Crackers. September 2009 will also see the launch of Kelkin gluten free Jaffa Cakes & Kelkin gluten free Multiseed Brown Bread.
